

Contribute to the special issue!

Theme Pharmaceuticals and the Environment.

In autumn 2020, Dosis will have a theme issue on sustainable pharmacy. We now call upon contributions from researchers and professionals across the healthcare sector.

The articles may discuss the sustainability challenges and solutions as well as environmental risk assessment of both pharmaceutical products and active pharmaceutical ingredients. Besides original research papers, also review articles, thesis summaries (doctoral dissertations and other graduation works), scientific opinion articles, letters and responses are welcomed.

Dosis is the sole Finnish journal in the field of pharmaceutical research, publishing contributions associated with pharmacy and related disciplines (www.dosis.fi).

Dosis is an Open Access online journal, which reaches tens of thousands of healthcare professionals, and more through social media. We wish you to have got your attention, so you could contribute to the theme issue and so enforce the implementation of sustainable pharmacy through dissemination of scientific findings among healthcare professionals and the environmentally concerned public.

Please indicate your interest to submit via email as soon as possible to one of the following addresses: directly to Dosis (dosis@farmasialiitto.fi) or the Editor-in-Chief Anneli Ritala (anneli.ritala@vtt.fi), or to the Guest Editors Tiina Sikanen (tiina.sikanen@helsinki.fi) and Jari Yli-Kauhaluoma (jari.yli-kauhaluoma@helsinki.fi). The manuscripts must be submitted before end of March 2020.
